106, principle 73. Incorrectly split into a) and b).	For the purposes of principle 72, where the licensee is not the registered proprietor of the land, the relevant Certificate(s) of Title will only be endorsed on the licence for: a) b) a maximum of five years unless otherwise specified in the written statement, where the subject land is in the same management area as the one the licence is referenced to; a maximum of five years, if the subject land is in a different management area than the one the licence is referenced to.	For the purposes of principle 72, where the licensee is not the registered proprietor of the land, the relevant Certificate(s) of Title will only be endorsed on the licence for: a) a maximum of five years unless otherwise specified in the written statement, where the subject land is in the same management area as the one the licence is referenced to; b) a maximum of five years, if the subject land is in a different management area than the one the licence is referenced to.
Page 156 (seventh paragraph). Refers to incorrect principle numbers.	The purpose of the monitoring is to assess the success with which the environmental protection policy (section 6.2.3-6.2.5 and 6.2.82-6.2.87) protects these underground water dependent ecosystems, both at each site and more generally at a regional scale.	The purpose of the monitoring is to assess the success with which the environmental protection policy (principles 2-5 and 84-89) protects these underground water dependent ecosystems, both at each site and more generally at a regional scale.
158, last paragraph of 11.6. The word "identified" was spelt incorrectly.	Evaluation and reporting of monitoring data for the 13 wetland complexes identified in Table 10 (Appendix of Figures and Tables) and for all high ecological value underground water dependent ecosystems identified for protection through the Plan, should be undertaken annually.
